

SUMMER SCHOOL

The Venetian Institute for Cultural Heritage (IVBC) is a non-profit organization, which, since 1995 is operating for the professional formation of technical conservators of cultural heritage. Its aim is also the research, the conservation and the restoration of Artistic and Built Heritage in Italy and abroad. This year the IVBC is launching a new international summer program, addressed to students coming from all over the world. The practical and theoretical lectures will be held in its laboratories in Venice, where they can first-hand experience extraordinary architectural and artistic masterpieces.
